

McGinnis'

---

IRISH PUB & GRILL

When Sandy Baker's 4th great-grandparents James B. and Martha Bridget Wilson McGinnis emigrated from County Derry and eventually settled in Venango County around 1777, little could they have known that more than 200 years later, an Irish pub would be established just a few miles from their final resting place, bearing the McGinnis family name.

The McGinnis surname is the anglicized form of the Gaelic Mag Aonghuis "son of Aonghus". It is the surname of a chieftain family in western County Down, where they held a seat from ancient times.

It is our hope that McGinnis' Irish Pub and Grill will delight you with its authentic ambience, food and Irish "Craic" - fun, music, and drink - as we welcome you as you would be welcomed in Ireland, with the traditional "Céad Mile Fáilte".

1340 Liberty Street  Franklin, Pennsylvania 16323